

01. How do you view the role of church community as we enter a post-COVID (or at least a less restricted) era?

02. How do you envision the church working out difficult conversations and situations in a healthy way?

03. How might you define “Generous Listening”? What does that look like in your life currently? Can you think of any examples of that in scripture or in your personal experience?

04. Frances Kissling writes,
“Change comes about at the margins. People in the center are not going to be the big change makers. You’ve got to put yourself at the margins and be willing to risk in order to make change. But more importantly, you have got to approach differences with this notion that there is good in the other. That’s it. And if we can’t figure out how to do that — if there isn’t the crack in the middle where there’s some people on both sides who absolutely refuse to see the other as evil, this is going to continue.”

What do you think she means by “change comes about from the margins”? What has to give way in the centre for change to occur? How do we work at forming cracks for the margins to get to the middle?
